FROM THURSDAY February 26, to THURSDAY March 5, 1741.

VIENNA, December 2.

THE Archdutcheſs, Queen of Bohemia, &c. has received a Letter in very obliging Terms from his Pruſſian Majeſty, wherein he promiſes all the Aſſiſtance he is able to give for maintaining the Terms of the Pragmatick Sanction, touching the Succeſſion to the Empreſs's Hereditary Dominions. The French Miniſter here has intimated to the Court, that the Elector of Bavaria has an undoubted Right to the Succeſſion of the Imperial Hereditary Dominions, but has received a ſmart Anſwer from the Miniſters of the Electors of Brandenburgh and Saxony, importing, that the Quiet of the Empire lay at a Stake, and that they were ready to oppoſe all thoſe who attempt to diſturb the ſame.

Paris, Nov. 28. O. S. The 25th Inſtant we receiv'd a Copy of the Speech of the King of Great Britain to his Parliament, and our Politicians mumble eſpecially on that Part of it where his Britannick Majeſty demands the neceſſary Aids for guarding againſt a certain Power, who ſeems inclined to traverſe his Military Operations againſt Spain.

LONDON, Dec. 18.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague.

THE Britiſh Miniſter, conformable to the Orders which he has received from his Court, continues earneſtly to endeavour to engage the States General to make a common Cauſe with the King his Maſter againſt Spain. Beſides the ſtrong Reaſons alledged upon this Subject in the Declarations which he has made thereupon, on the part of his Britannick Majeſty, he himſelf has added thereto whatever he thought proper for determining the Republick to put itſelf in a Poſture of Defence. This Miniſter always talks with Force and Energy. It's poſitively aſſured that he has communicated to ſome of the Members of the Regency, the Subjects of Complaint that the King his Maſter has for ſome Time had againſt the Conduct of the Dutch Ambaſſador at Paris, which ſeems to have been oppoſite to the Intereſt of Great Britain, both from the Report thereof at London by the Britiſh Ambaſſador lately returned thither, and the Declaration which this laſt has made, that, ſuppoſing even that an open Rupture ſhould not happen between Great Britain and France, he will not go back to Paris ſo long as that Miniſter ſhould continue there in the Station he is in. The Court of London, it's ſaid, inſiſts upon the States General recalling this their Ambaſſador. As ſome Thoughts of doing this has already been entertained, a very extraordinary Report has been ſpread abroad relating to him; being pretended by ſome, that he has for ſome Time paſt quitted the Deſign of ever returning to ſettle in his own Country, having, they ſay, reſolved, in caſe he ſhould be recalled, to change his Religion, and to remain at the Court of France. If this ſhould prove a Fact, it is to be preſumed, that he will obtain ſome Employment at that Court. How much he has been cajoled by the Cardinal is no ſecret. Expecting however that theſe Things will manifeſt themſelves, there is great Talk here of nominating an Ambaſſador in his ſtead, and for that Purpoſe People caſt their Eyes on M. de Dieu, the Dutch Commiſſary at the Congreſs of Antwerp, who, it's thought, is a Perſon well qualified for that Employment, being a Man of great Underſtanding, and no leſs Merit, very capable of rendring Service to the Republick at a Court where it is of the utmoſt Importance to have one who is well verſed in Affairs.

At length the Fuze is well nigh conſumed, and the Bomb muſt conſequently ſoon burſt; after which People will manifeſtly diſcern the Tendency of the general Affairs of Europe, which an adroit Policy has for ſome Time paſt covered with a Veil. The King of Pruſſia opens the Scene. This Prince, as well as ſeveral others, gave at the Death of the Emperor all poſſible Aſſurances to the Archdutcheſs, his Heireſs, to ſupport her in the Rights which are aſſured by the Pragmatick Sanction. He indeed at firſt aſſembles Troops, under Pretence that the Elector of Bavaria forming Pretenſions, and ſetting himſelf in Oppoſition to the Execution of the Pragmatick Sanction, had put his Troops in Motion; and then, all on a ſudden, his Pruſſian Majeſty cauſed a Body of 15000 Men to enter into Sileſia, in the ſame Manner as ſoon after his Acceſſion to the Throne he unexpectedly cauſed 8000 Men to enter into the Dutchy of Liege. The Motive of this hoſtile Proceeding is to ſupport his Rights to the Dutchies and Principalities of Jagerſdorff, Leignitz, Brieg and Wolaw; the firſt of which devolv'd to the Houſe of Brandenbourg in in the Year 1524, and the other three in 1675, either by Purchaſe, or by Right of Succeſſion, which Rights were acknowledged by the Emperor Leopold, by his having enter'd into a Convention with the Elector Frederick William in 1686, to indemnify him for the Loſs of them. His Pruſſian Majeſty has cauſed Declaration to be made, that theſe were the Motives of his preſent Conduct in regard thereto, and that as there were other Princes ready to maintain certain Pretenſions to theſe Territories, he judged he could not be too early in the Support of his Right; that nevertheleſs her Majeſty the Queen of Hungary ſhould always find him ready amicably to determine this Difference. This Prince made uſe of the ſame Language to the Biſhop of Liege. Theſe two firſt Actions of his Reign make it appear what his Neighbours are to expect from a Prince quick in his Reſolution, and firm in the Execution of what he undertakes. If every Body who have Pretenſions upon the Succeſſion of the late Emperor were to follow the Example of this Prince, the Guaranty of the Pragmatick Sanction may poſſibly be the Source of a general War. His Pruſſian Majeſty's entering into Sileſia cauſes great Agitations here, in reſpect to the Obligations of this Country upon that Province, People being greatly afraid of ſuffering from this Quarrel. It's reported, that his Pruſſian Majeſty will alſo aſſemble a Body of Troops upon the Lower Rhine, which gives great Diſquietude to ſeveral Powers.

By the laſt Letters from Cork we hear, they are unſhipping the Beef, &c. from the French Ships, and putting them on board our Tranſports, to be ſent immediately under a Convoy of Men of War to our Fleet in the Weſt-Indies.

Boston, January 12. We have had so severe a Season for some Time past that our Harbour is shut up that no Vessel can go out or in, great Numbers of People daily go to the Castle on the Ice, and some have been as far as the Light-House. But the Weather is now considerably altered, so that we hope the Harbour will be soon open again.

Feb 9. The Eastern Post came in late last Saturday Evening, being obliged to travel the greatest part of the Way with Snow-shoes, the Snow being so drifted as to make the Roads unpassable for Horses

New York, December 22. Our Streets are fill'd with confus'd Heaps of Snow, so that the Lovers of Sled riding can scarcely use them without Danger, the whole Mass fell in one Night's Time, and now the Cold is so excessive, that while I am writing in a warm Room by a good Fire Side, the Ink freezes in the Pen.

Jan. 12. Last Week a Collection was made for the Poor throughout the several Wards in this City, when a generous Spirit of Charity appear'd in every one. The Money collected amounting to upwards of 500 l — A seasonable Relief for the distressed in this hard Winter.
